Call for Rigid Curb of Campaign Funds in Spring Expenditures

LAY 52 CENTS A BALLOT

Spent $14,198, and Democrats $9,228, 406 in Last Drive

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The campaign expenditures for the coming year are expected to be the most costly in the history of the nation.

When Christabel Hernandez, 22, eloped to Fort Collins, Colo., with Constance Tellogos, 18, above authorities of their home town of Scotia Bluff declined to act taking the attitude that since the couple were married here was nothing to be done about it.

City council last night took action to prepare to take on the water company in the fight for a reduction in the rate. At a public hearing a distance was taken to make an audit of the books and cap at a rate of $100,000.

The decision to make the audit was arrived at less than two weeks before the deadline of the utility commission to file its report. The city is asking a reduction of approximately 12 percent.

At a hearing before the commission in Columbus Feb. 15 the city gave 30 days to assemble its arguments or which to base its request for lower rates.

More Time Asked

Paul H. Carhart, city auditor, today sent a written request to the utility commission for more time for the city to prepare its case. His letter asked the action of the commission to be delayed until the work was under way and that more time would be needed to complete the audit.

The audit will be started by Mr. Wood immediately. The audit officials said will be made on behalf of the commission which has granted the city the right to make the investigation.

Mayor Smith said today that the audit of the water company records will be exhaustive. It will go back at least 20 years in the company's financial history. Information will be assembled regarding the company's structure as well as its net earnings over a long period of time.

This information will be valuable to the mayor in that it will go a long way in determining the rate of return on the company's investment in the water plant. Since utilities are allowed a net return of six per cent on their investment these two points will be of major importance in determining the water rate.

Whether the audit will replace the present rate is not known.

Already passed by the house, the measure went to the senate with instructions that considerable debate would precede a vote.

The bill introduced by Rep. Grover Maxwell Democrat of Delaware would set up the division as a branch of the welfare department and would abolish the position of superintendent of the charities division held by Mrs. Lucetta Magruder who twice disregarded Gov. Martin L. Davis's request that she resign.

Attacks Economy Claim

Mrs. Magruder took issue with administration contentions that the bill would save the state $100,000 a year by coordinating various functions of a division headed by Henry J. Johnson.

The new division would embrace activities in connection with aid for dependent and crippled children, the aged and the blind. Payment of old age pensions however would remain in the hands of the present division of aid for the aged.

The Maxwell bill was among various important measures the assembly hoped to consider before undertaking action on a long range relief program to supplant a temporary setup effective until April 15.

A subcommittee of the house taxation committee recommended municipal and county tax levies on automobiles and liquor permits as a means of raising local funds to match state relief grants. Members of the subcommittee whose action is subject to approval of the full committee said their plan would raise $14,000,000 a year if the 35 counties imposed proposed maximum taxes. These would be $3 a year on automobiles and up to 30

Head of Charities Division Denies Claim Measure Would Save $100,000

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4.—Administration forces in the legislature pushed for final action today on a bill to establish a division of public assistance designed as the Ohio unit of the federal social security program.

Already passed by the house, the measure went to the senate with instructions that considerable debate would precede a vote.

The bill introduced by Rep. Grover Maxwell Democrat of Delaware would set up the division as a branch of the welfare department and would abolish the position of superintendent of the charities division held by Mrs. Lucetta Magruder who twice disregarded Gov. Martin L. Davis's request that she resign.

ROOSEVELT TO TALK ON COURT

Speech Tonight at Democratic Victory Dinner To Refer to Judiciary Indirectly

WILL SPEAK OF PROBLEMS

More Detailed Statement on Tribunal Change Will Be Given Next Tuesday

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Administration officials emphasized today that President Roosevelt's speech tonight to Democratic victory dinners would be of major importance and would refer indirectly to his court reorganization program.

It will lay the groundwork for a more detailed statement of his judicial and objectives in the "fireside chat" from the White House next Tuesday.

Democrats conversant with the President's intentions said he would talk in terms of problems more than remedies much as he did in his inaugural address four years ago today.

Wants More at Work

He was represented by them as still believing as he said then that our greatest primary task is to put people to work.

Estimates of that day showed about 15,000,000 were unemployed. The American Federation of Labor recently numbered the idle at about 10,000,000.

The speech this evening will be broadcast at 10:30 p. m. eastern standard time. The occasion will be one of frank Democratic celebration designed to raise money to pay off the $430,000 party deficit.

At a dinner of young Democrats several blocks away Mrs. Roosevelt will be guest of honor.

W. Forbes Morgan party treasurer said 150 dinners were scheduled in 43 states. Vice President Garner will be the honor guest at the $50-a-plate dinner in New York.

Laborers, Farmers Real Issue

Some supporters of the President on the judiciary issue have argued that the real dispute is over the Roosevelt program of wage and hour and agricultural legislation not over possible enlargement of the supreme court.

Disasters sought today to enlist aid from spokesmen for business labor and farm group themselves. Invitations were extended to many to testify against the bill at the senate judiciary committee hearings.

The opposition speakers will be called March 16 after advances of the proposal by a had their say. Names were withheld pending acceptance.

Supporters were cheered by a caucus of the large Pennsylvania house delegation. Rep. Dorsey secretary of the group said it voted to back the administration's supreme court policy.

Dorsey Poll Mandate

Pep Lammert Democrat of Ohio in a radio address last night denied that Mr. Roosevelt received a mandate for court reorganization in the November election.

Throughout his entire campaign Lammert said the President spoke not a word about this proposed change.

The question is not whether we shall or shall not support the President (Continued on Page Seven)

STEEL CIO FOES MAY ORGANIZE

Independent Union Considered by Friends of Carnegies Company Union Plan

WILL CONSULT FAIRLESS

May Pattern New Organization After Setup Recently Formed in Chicago Area

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—Supporters of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation's plan of employee representation considered today forming an independent union to oppose extension of John L. Lewis' organization of 340,000 steelworkers.

A member of the corporation's employee defense committee said the group was studying the possibility of such an independent labor union. He added the committee's decision would be submitted possibly today to Benjamin F. Fairless, Carnegie-Illinois president.

Action by the employee representatives followed signing of a contract Tuesday night between Lewis' steel workers organizing committee and Carnegie-Illinois the largest subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corp. and employing 120,000 men in the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts.

To Use Chicago Pattern

Members of the defense committee said the independent union plan if adopted would be patterned after the steel employees in dependent labor organization recently formed among Carnegie-Illinois workers in the Chicago district.

Fairless has agreed to meet with the Chicago group next week and has given assurance that the corporation will continue to negotiate with its employee representatives on collective bargaining as well as with the Lewis union.

Philip Murray chairman of the steel workers organizing committee has summoned union representatives from each of the 7 Carnegie-Illinois plants to a meeting here next Tuesday to select delegates to a collective bargaining conference with the steel executives.

Says Company Union Dead

Murray sent 40 key men in his union drive back to their headquarters today with the declaration.

The company union is dead. Management has completely repudiated it. They may not ever admit it in public they may not even admit it to me but what has happened in the last few days justified that.

Concerning his determination to extend his union membership, now claimed to be approximately 200,000 throughout the entire industry, Murray said:

"The independent steel companies may balk a little and cry a little but they will come around just as soon as we get the men signed up. When we do that we are going to have a universal agreement throughout the steel industry."

DOG LICENSE SALES LEAD RECORD YEAR

Sales of dog licenses for 1937 are ahead of the 1936 sales that set an all-time record in the county, Deputy Maurice Clements in the county auditor's office said today.

After selling license No. 4900 last year he referred to records showing the sales last year at the end of February stood at 4400.

If this year's sales continue to lead those of 1936 by a margin of around 500 the number of licenses for 1937 will approach the 5,000 mark. Last year's sales reached 3,844 at the end of the year.

Net Profits of Seven Billion for 1936 Ranks Year as Best Since Abnormal Pinnacle in 1929

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4.—American industry made a long stride in 1936 toward prosperity of thumping proportions analysts agreed today as they studied data indicating net profits exceeded $7,000,000,000 to rank it as the best year since the 1929 peak.

The tentative estimate which would indicate a 20 per cent advance from 1935, although 40 per cent under the $11,934,000,000 earned in 1929, was based on statements from 1,000 corporations and experience with reports of previous years.

Reports already available indicate a 30 per cent hike in net profits over 1935 by manufacturers in placing total net profits at $7,000,000,000.

possibly more pointed out that while gains usually are shown in the earlier reports in a period of recovery.

The 1930 net was $4,630,000,000. The biggest gains during 1936 were steel and paper companies which almost trebled income of the year before according to the recent survey of the National City Bank.

Department stores picked up 136 per cent followed closely by building materials, up 146 per cent, and heating and plumbing, up 150.

The only profit decline noted in the bank's compilation was for woolen companies, due principally to the unusually heavy demand in 1935.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

Less Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing weight. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the food in your body goes through this gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every two hours, many people take on weight. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "dirt" acts in a furnace. Now, physicians contend this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—millions of pounds of excess fat have been wiped out in this way.

Marmol's Prescription Tablets are based on the same method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmol's treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get a box of Marmol's today from your druggist.

Follow A Few Easy Rules And You're Sure To Enjoy Dancing

By JOAN DURHAM
Assorted from Walter
Nowhere in the entertainment world does the psychology of looking as if you're having a grand time—whether you are or not—bring such immediate results as it does at a dance. For where there is gaiety there is also a crowd.

Two important take-aways for that psychological bluff are (1) being sure you look your best and (2) knowing how to dance—and that means being able to dance like those you'll be dancing with most of the evening.

Don't Rush Preparations
Take plenty of time getting ready for the dance. Have your hair washed and set the day before. Don't leave your hair until the last minute. And have your dress back from the cleaners in time to attach the necessary buckles and other ornaments.

Put your make-up on slowly and carefully—wiping off excess powder—while you wait for your dress or wrap. And don't just dab on your perfume and run.

If the dance is a program affair it's customary to reserve the first and last dances for your escort. Men who don't already know you and wish to dance with you should have themselves introduced—by the hostess or your escort or intimate friends. If you don't wish to accept an invitation to dance you may say that you prefer to rest for a while. But if you use such an excuse don't turn around and accept another offer right away.

Avoiding Cuts
Once you're on the dance floor and someone cuts in, however, you can't refuse to dance with him—unless there's some very good reason for doing so. If he touches your partner on the arm and asks, "May I?" your partner is bound to let you go. The only way you and your escort can avoid cuts—by both of you to avoid them—is for your escort to steer clear of the stag line or for you to resist to such stunts as dancing with your eyes closed.

One of the quickest ways to land in the little row of chairs along the wall is to talk too much—or whistle or sing loud. It's all right to talk a little and use a little bit of a so-called "joke." (Remember, the old saying about sugar catching more flies than vinegar? Well, everybody likes a little flattery—especially on a dance floor. But don't overdo it.)

At the end of the dance, when your partner says something like, "Thank you—as he should—you may reply, "Thank you, too," as he takes you back to your escort.

St. Patrick Theme Features Dancing Of Club Members

PROGRAMS in the form of minicranks, and decorations of green and white carried out a St. Patrick's day theme for the dance arranged for the pleasure of the Nine to Twelve Dance club members and several guests last evening at the Elks' hall.

Forty-five couples danced to a program played by Bob McMahon and his orchestra. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Norton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Winters and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Roberts of Bucyrus, Paul Pleasant of San Antonio, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. George Plunck. Acting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cohn, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Dorey N. Bohrer, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hippius. The committee were St. Patrick's day caps and aprons for the serving of refreshments during the program intermission.

The next dance will be in three weeks.

Married' Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

"I hope you're all finished, for I'm going to start for those children in another ten seconds. Are you with me, Dicky?"

I saw resentment flame in his eyes, but his reply was as nonchalant as my query.

Others Going, Too

"To the last muscle of my legs," he replied. "Are the rest of you coming?"

"Ask us a hard one," Harry Underwood replied. "Add you'd better travel fast, or we'll trip over your heels."

But when we climbed the rather steep ascent from the cabins to the garage, it was Harry Underwood who put his hand beneath my elbow to help me up the grade. Dicky had adroitly ranged himself beside Lillian, making it appear the casual shifting of any social gathering. But I knew that he was still implacable in his displeasure, and that it would be a long time before he would forgive me for listening, even though involuntarily, to the seemingly impassioned words he had heard Allen Drake address to me.

At the end of the next five minutes, however, the embarrassment Allen Drake had caused me and the censor Drake was cherishing were both forgotten. I had the most body of all pleasurable emotions, the clasp of a child's arms, and an excited, happy voice shouting, "Oh, Mum! You're really here!"

(Copyright, 1937, K. F. S., Inc.)

There was something more than ordinary aversion in Mary's voice as she said, "Just as I don't have to see them," which told me that her feeling about the anonymous letters had its roots in something deeper than the disgust which any healthy person feels toward such proof that slimy minds do exist.

I knew, of course, what was at the root of her feeling. She did not fear Avis Arlen—she was even able to laugh with good-humored contempt at her—but I knew that the memory of some of the things Avis had done to her would always be fresh in her memory, even as once would always remember the bite of a cobra, if one chanced to survive it.

Avis had meant to destroy Mary and her happiness. She had not succeeded, but I feared that my husband's bonny niece, whom I love so dearly, had not seen the last of Avis Arlen's attempts to injure her.

Lillian's cheery voice when she came into the room seemed like a fresh breeze dispelling miasmas.

"Well, our men are awake!" she said, "and I think they're dressing if they're not, it will be just too bad for both of them, for I told them I'd be back in three minutes. Hello, Mrs. Gibbs!" she called through the open door. "Hobo herself was never more welcome."

Mrs. Gibbs set down a tray holding a pitcher of iced orange juice, a pot of coffee, sugar and cream. Then she went swiftly to the cupboard in the kitchen and, bringing dishes, silver, tablecloths and napkins, she arranged a table with quiet, deft movements which put to shame our efforts to help her.

"I've arranged for five," she said, "for I don't believe Mary ever refused coffee and orange juice to her life."

"I'll take it if I were going down for the last time," Mary declared, and then a knock upon the door signaled the arrival of our husbands. "Luncheon in about three-quarters of an hour," Mrs. Gibbs said as she hurried away, and big Harry Underwood patted his diaphragm tenderly.

Dicky Still Sulking

"Will I be there?" he intoned. "Just watch me!"

I waited impatiently for Dicky to shoot an insulting remark at his big friend, for the word warfare they invariably carry on is a sure source of amusement to them and to all their friends. But to my surprise—and discomfiture—my husband uttered no jesting word, or, indeed, any word at all after the stereotyped "Good morning" which had come from his lips when he first entered the room.

He intended to carry his sulky mood on. I could see that plainly, and I drank my coffee and fruit juice with a feeling compounded of sorrow, anger and disgust, in equal proportions.

But I determined not to give him the satisfaction of noticing his mood.

So, when I saw that everybody had finished, I said airily:

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDEMER

She had long thin arms behind her head, watching Eve pack glasses in a barrel; her gray mole skin coat, given her by Jane Dillon, the rich artist, was thrown on the dusty floor and her hand-drawn skirt fell, carefully hung on the sideboard above her. "Think of walking straight into a summer place in Connecticut! I see that the crowd won't desert you. We'll all come out and see you when it gets warm enough."

"Oh, do!"

"I suppose you've saved simply heaps of money," Marilyn went on. "I remember meeting you once trouting into a savings bank and being eaten up with envy. We're such idiots about saving. If people weren't angels to us we'd have starved in a gutter years ago," concluded Marilyn happily, taking another wafer from the box beside her.

Eve straightened up for a minute and pushed a lock of hair under the rubber shower cap she was wearing, because it was the same color as her calico apron. "I think there's enough to carry me across too-scarlet lips and made more play with her round black eyes.

They heard a good deal about the man's thwarted passion for Mitz before she chattered herself out. Marilyn trailing behind her, being ignored somewhere or other.

Ellen sized up Mitz.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if it really led to something?" Eve said. "I hope the man's simply nuts over her."

Ellen Walton carefully stuffing newspapers between china, said: "Well, of course he isn't. Somebody should send Mitz a Freud book. Once a man has been held by the lapels twice by Mrs. Preston T. Power he's just one of two things in her conversation: he's insulted her magnificently and has to be kept off with a gun, or he's nobly trying to forget her. It's her complex. But outside of that she's a wise baby; I don't underrate her or advise you to."

"Go on, I'm not!" said Denny blithely. "Don't be crazy, Ellen. I'm dining with Mitz and abandoning Eve like a dropped glove."

There are three primary rules for "not worrying" a man.

Never marry a man who criticizes you—whether he's right or wrong. A few years with a critic on the brain will take all the heart, all the color and all the pep out of the most brilliant woman, and fill her with an eternal inferiority complex.

Never marry a man who bores you, no matter how good or important he is—or even how worthy and intelligent. Because to both of you, marriage will soon be just "solitary confinement."

And don't marry a man until you have found out whether he believes in working for a living, or just in "spitting" over a big proposition—tomorrow.

All the rest you need to know about a man, in order to get a line on him, you can learn in a restaurant. There is no place to size a man up that compares with the dinner table.

Don't decide to marry a man until you observe how he treats a waiter. To some men, an argument with the waiter is just part of the evening's entertainment. If a man will bully a waiter who is practically at his mercy, think twice before you place yourself at his mercy. The man who makes a scene in a restaurant will keep his wife's face red from the wedding day to the divorce.

Reserve your judgment about a man until you see how he pays the dinner check. If he scrutinizes the bill with the frown of an expert accountant, and then grudgingly does out the money like the victim of a hold-up, he's a tightwad and will probably make his wife feel like a charity ward all her life.

But if he barely glances at the addition, hands the waiter a big banknote and tells him to "keep the change," he may be a show-off or a waster, and the girl who marries him may have to take roomers, or go back to her job to pay off his debt.

Before you marry a man, get a line on his appetite. If he picks at his food and pushes back his plate, any girl he marries may have a case of chronic indigestion and crankiness on her hands. But if he orders everything on the menu and eats and eats until he has finished it, he is probably the kind who will grow fat and go to sleep after dinner; and the honeymoon will be over before the boats for Bermuda pass Sandy Hook.

And don't marry a man until you see what two or three cocktails will do to him. Some become affectionate and bawdy; some are loud and argumentative; some want to fight—and some just become mellow and genial and more interesting.

If you love a man enough to outweigh any or all of these failings, then marry him! Because, if you can't love a man in spite of his failings, you may never marry at all!

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

EAT, DRINK AND BE MARRIED

It is seldom that a girl has a chance to "house" a husband out of a large and varied assortment. But almost every girl has at least two or three chances to refuse one, and, by elimination, to avoid a divorce.

GEISHAS IN SIT-DOWN STRIKE FOR GUILD RECOGNITION

The sit-down strike idea has spread to Japan where a group of geishas—Japanese girl entertainers—perched defiantly in a mountain Buddhist temple near Osaka, demanding recognition of their guild before they would consider a return to the city's fashionable cafes and geisha houses. Shown is a group of geishas. (Associated Press Photo) through the summer," she said, "though it does give me a sort of unsafe feeling to spend it, I admit."

Mitz entered, all perfume and mink and clattering heels.

"Oh, splendid! And in the fall you'll be back and we'll all celebrate."

Eve smiled to herself. She and Denny had worked it all out that very noontime. They were going to get married the minute Eve got anything at all to do, no matter how little. There would be a long series of Saturday hunts for the right apartment. "And I'm keeping the list of advertisements we cut out the other day, just for luck," Denny had said. "We'll start just where we left off."

There was no use telling Marilyn that. Marilyn was like a child, and always poured out everything to the next person she met. She had no secrets of her own or anybody else's, friendly, childish, long-legged Marilyn!

A Small Fashionable Bear.

There was a bang on the door, followed by an excited Denny and a complacently beaming Mitz, all perfume and mink and clattering heels, rather like a small fashionable bear.

"What do you think of this swell sport of a Mitz?" Denny cried. "She's lending you the limousine to take your furniture over to my flat to store. And has she a grand idea for selling me up the river?"

Mitz, thus introduced, smiled brightly, hugged Eve and Marilyn and waved to Ellen Walton, quietly packing china in the corner. She was then established in state in the center of things, and they waited while she stripped off her white gloves, loosened her coat above a new navy crepe import and repinned her gardenias. She coquetted with Denny through too-blackened lashes, put a buttonhole elaborately into his buttonhole and then turned to Eve.

"I hope you won't think I'm horrid, for Denny said he was going to be a big h-e-m-a-n and escort you out to the wilds... But I'm such a helpless little lady, and Denny simply insisted on doing host at my dinner party that night. And this man—well, his wife's my friend and that's that. I hope I'm loyal. But he wants to do anything he can for me."

Denny interrupted.

"This man's building a publicity department for his corporation and Mitz thinks she can get me in on the ground floor!"

Mitz brushed the other gardenias

She resolvedly made herself go to sleep, but it did hurt a little irrationally, just the same.

Eve goes alone, tomorrow, to reopen her old house in the country.

I'M NEW... AND BETTER THAN EVER! WE SHOULD MAKE WASHDAY HISTORY NOW!

YOUR NEW WASHER IS MARVELOUS. MY WHAT RICH SUDS IT MAKES.

OF COURSE THE WASHER IS PERFECT. BUT THE GRAND SUDS COME FROM THE NEW 1937 RINSO I'M USING.

NEW RINSO? IS THERE ANY DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THIS AND THE OLD?

I SHOULD SAY! THE NEW RINSO GIVES HEAPS MORE SUDS THAT LAST AND SET—EVEN IN COLD HARD WATER.

YOU BET WE WILL! WOMEN EVERYWHERE CAN YOU GET 25 TO 50% MORE SUDS

LATER WANT TO SEE WHY I'M SO CRAZY ABOUT THE NEW RINSO? LOOK AT THIS. SEE HOW SHINY IT IS, AND THE COLORED THINGS COME OUT BRIGHTER, TOO.

I'VE BEEN USING A SOAP THAT CLAIMS TO BE LIKE RINSO... BUT IT NEVER WASHED MY CLOTHES AS WHITE AS THIS. I'M GOING TO CHANGE TO RINSO.

WELL, WHEN YOU SEE IT'S JUST AS WHITE AS ALL CLOTHING, RID OF SOIL.

Grand for use in your new 1937 washing machine. Rinso cleans white, brightens colors, and makes suds that last and set—even in cold hard water.

Now 1937 Rinso is the same popular Rinso.

Ray Ruffner of Prospect, operator of a beer parlor, was taken into custody there last night by Deputy Gene Gieseler of the office of Sheriff Fred F. Miller on a war-an officer.

The deputy was told the charge, signed by Constable H. R. Pattertempts to serve attachment papers on Ruffner.

Ruffner was taken to the county jail last night and probably will be arraigned in the court of Justice of the Peace G. F. Galt at Prospect today or Friday.
